BAAL Code of Conduct for events

At this BAAL 2021 online event we want everyone to share ideas, discuss research issues, learn from each other and network productively, in a safe and comfortable environment.

As a preventive measure and to avoid any misunderstandings, we ask that those taking part adhere to the following code of conduct.

1. Presenters should keep to their allotted time as much as possible.
2. Questions should be succinct, and earnestly inquisitive or constructively critical, not overtly dismissive.
3. Please refrain from taking screenshots or photos of the slides or the presenters, unless invited to by the presenter.
4. This event will not be recorded by the organisers. Please don't make your own recordings of the talks.
5. We are committed to maintaining and promoting a scholarly community in which people treat each other with dignity and respect. Any harassment or intimidation based on race, religion, ethnicity, language, gender identity or expression, sexual orientation, physical or cognitive ability, age, appearance, or any other status, will not be tolerated.

The committee will address any reports of inappropriate behaviour seriously – and discreetly, in order to protect those raising concerns. If you would like to raise any concerns, please email the BAAL Secretary, Caroline Tagg (caroline.tagg@open.ac.uk) or any member of the BAAL executive committee board. The BAAL executive committee members are all listed on the committee page of our website.
